This map booklet shows the 177 mile (285km) Offa's Dyke Path National Trail along the English-Welsh border from Sedbury (near Chepstow) and Prestatyn, north Wales. One of Britain's classic trails, the walking is not arduous and the trail can comfortably be walked within a fortnight.

This booklet of Ordnance Survey 1:25,000 Explorer maps has been designed for convenient use on the trail. It shows the full and up-to-date line of the National Trail, along with the relevant extract from the OS Explorer map legend. Conveniently sized for slipping into a jacket pocket or top of a rucksack, it comes in a clear PVC sleeve and provides all of the mapping you need to complete the trail.

The iconic earthwork of Offa's Dyke, the longest linear earthwork in Britain, is a defining feature of the Welsh borders. The long-distance path named after it offers an unforgettable journey between the Severn estuary and the Irish Sea, contouring above the Wye and Dee, visiting hillforts and Norman castles and exploring the hidden heritage of the Marches.

An accompanying Cicerone guidebook – Offa's Dyke Path / 9781852847760 – describes the full route with lots of other practical planning and background information, for those who prefer a written guide. NOTE: The accompanying guidebook includes a copy of this map booklet.

Key marketing points

- This map booklet is included with the Offa's Dyke Path guidebook
- Convenient for additional mapping when walking the trail in groups

About the author

Mike Dunn was born in Leicester but has lived in Penarth in the Vale of Glamorgan for over 30 years. He worked for the Welsh Assembly Government, latterly specialising in environmental and conservation issues, and has written widely on landscape, walking, pubs and real ale. Mike's favourite locations for walking are the Welsh borders, the Hebridean Islands and the Lake District.
